

The city of Rio de Janeiro uses BvLF research to reduce violence in poor kids' lives
Parents living in cortices in Sao Paulo generate greater income
Brazil's media debate the problems faced by young children living in cortices

Brazil bans corporal punishment in the home

Rates of domestic violence reduce in the Peruvian region of Iquitos

Local authorities in Peru commit to zero violence in children's lives

Home visiting services begin in the Amazon and more rural children are registered at birth

Playing in supervised playgrounds, no young kids drown in Belen

Young people in Belen build safer housing modelled by young children in LEGO blocks

Odisha makes mother tongue-based preschool education a policy for 1.4 million tribal children

Children's voices influence slum development planning in India

Minority children in Israel gain access to higher quality pre-school services

Pre-school teachers in Israel are better equipped to deal with violence in the classroom

Israeli society debates the impact of political violence on all the country's young children

Bedouin kids in the Negev have safe spaces to play and access to basic services

Bedouin widowed mothers gain access to credit for their catering company

More children in the Netherlands express themselves about experiencing violence

Disadvantaged kids in The Hague and Rotterdam receive quality early learning in their kindergartens

Services for abused children in Holland are centred on the child's needs

8,500 poor Ugandan kids have improved care, nutrition and enjoy more playtime with their primary caregivers

Influential business leaders in Uganda become champions for young children

Funding increases for the district integrated home visiting approach in Uganda

Community dialogues about violence in young children's lives begin in rural Tanzania

Tanzania enacts a national policy for kids

Research with 1,000 families in southeast Turkey stops violence before it starts

Fewer kids get sick in Turkish seasonal migrant worker communities

More services are available in Istanbul for abused women and children

Violence prevention becomes a national conversation in Turkey

Early childhood is a much-debated topic in the Mexican presidential elections

2000 more kids get safe spaces in Ciudad Juarez

Communities in South Africa demand services for their kids from their local government

Parents of Roma children in Belfast help them to do well in school

Early education services for Roma children improve in Romania, Slovakia, Macedonia and Hungary